Mario Biagioli

The Author as Vegetable: Problems with the Nature of the Knowledge Commons

March 31, 2008
4:00 - 6:00pm
Law School, Room 2011

Co-sponsored by the UC Davis Law School, Science & Technology Studies, English, History, Cultural Studies, and the Davis Humanities Institute

Mario Biagioli is Professor of the History of Science at Harvard University. He is the author of numerous influential works in science and technology studies, the history of science, intellectual property law, and cultural studies, including Galileo, Courtier: The Practice of Science in the Cultural of Absolutism (1993) and Galileo’s Instruments of Credit: Telescopes, Images, Secrecy (2006). His current research projects deal with scientific authorship and intellectual property, science and law, and the economics of technical knowledge production.