Two lectures by Adam Gopnik!

Author and staff writer for The New Yorker

This award-winning journalist speaks with singular wit, eloquence and insight on modern life and culture. He has a rich trove of delightful stories and revealing observations about people and places and everyday life.

Lecture: “Drawing Conclusions: Life Lessons Learned from Drawing”

When: Wednesday, May 2nd 4:30pm – 6:00pm
Where: Nelson Gallery at Nelson Hall (formerly University Club)

Lecture: “The Table Comes First: France, Family and the Meaning of Food”

When: Thursday, May 3, 2012, 4:00pm to 5:00pm
$15 to attend reception from 5:00pm-6:30pm
Where: UC Davis Conference Center
RSVP: By April 30th tdickinson@ucdavis.edu or 530-754-6349

Following the lecture, copies of Mr. Gopnik’s book will be available for sale and signing.

For additional information on this event or to become a Friend of the RMI, please visit:
www.RobertMondaviInstitute.ucdavis.edu

Robert Mondavi Institute for Wine and Food Science
Enhancing our quality of life through wine, brewing and food sciences