Plot Summary
After their award-winning documentary, Suddenly, Last Winter, Luca and Gustav are back. This time they have to decide whether to stay in Italy, or leave it, like so many of their friends have already done. Taking into consideration some defining Italian icons, they go on an emotional trip through Italy in an old Fiat 500 to attempt to look beyond the clichés and discover what is left of the famous Italian way of life, and on the way confront a glorious past, a shaky present, and an uncertain future.
